

The No Call Program is a great thing. I don't miss rushing to the phone only to have to deal with persistent people trying to offer me services I am not interested in. This program should not be compromised just because big businesses want to see it go away.